Chief Swingley Makes Annual Report-Urges That Force Be Increased.

The establishment of Engine Company No 5 in the neighborhood of Twelfth street and Washington avenue, in order to afford betection to the "wholesale district," is ended by Chief of the Fire Department Swingley in his annual communication to Comptroller Sturgeon. A bill has been passed by the Municipal Assembly authoring the sale of the old No. 6 engine-house on Seventh street, between Olive and Pine streets, and the acquisition of a new home

Chief Bwingley also comments on the necessity of erecting engine-houses near Maryland and Taylor avenues, Ninth and Buchanan streets, Ninth and Soulard streets, and Grand and St. Louis avenues, and a hook and ladder house in the rear of Engine-house No. 27.

"I also beg to renew my recommendation of former years," he writes, "that each company be strengthened by the addition of at least one man. Few fire departments run their companies with as few men as this department. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and other cities have from

Three opinions were handed down yesterday in the United States Court of Appeals. The decree of the United States Circuit Court. for the District of Colorado in the case of Wayne MacVeagh, appellant, against The Denver City Waterworks of Denver, which dismissed the bill of the appellant, was affirmed in an opinion written by Judge Caldwell and concurred in by Judges Thayer and Sanborn.

In the case of Henrietta Lemmon, Dwight N. Wheeler and Nick Fritz, plaintiffs in error, against the United States of America, the court handed down an opinion reversing the decree of the lower court and remanding the case for trial. The case was appealed from the United States Circuit Court, District of Nebraska. The suit was an action by the Government to recover money alleged to be due the Winnebago Indian Nation for rent of a certain part of the reservation. The lower court rendered a judgment against the plaintiffs in error, who appealed the case.

UNIVERSITY CLUB HONORS DISTINGUISHED ST. LOUISANS

Elects Judge Samuel Treat and James E. Yeatman to Honorary Membership.

CREATES A PRECEDENT.

The University Club at a recent business meeting decided to establish an honorary nembership list and to place first upon that list the names of Judge Samuel Treat and James E. Yeatman.

The University Club is the first St. Louis organization to inaugurate such an honor-ary membership. Nearly every club has an honorary list on which are inscribed the Court, District of Kansas, in the case of Dean and William H. Sage, plaintiffs in error, against Fargo Township, Seward County, Kansas, which decided against the plaintiffs, was sustained by the higher court. The case involved a sale of bonds of the township to buy capital stock in a proposed railroad. The plaintiffs held coupons for these bonds, on which they retused payment on the ground that at the time of the issuance of the bonds the township yas not duly organized, and had no authority to issue bonds. The opinion was written by Judge Adams. names of out-of-town persons who may at some time or times have been special guests of the club and who have added luster to the club's fame by their literary, social, ar-tistic or diplomatic talents. But it has re-mained for the University Club to set the pace for an honorary list that shall contain only the names of such eminent gentle-men of this city as shall be deemed worthy of that distinction by the club, their eligi-bility determined by some special fitness, such as the accumulation of collegiate derees or the eminence which comes of many Objections were entered with the Committee on Railroads of the City Council yesterday afternoon against the pending bill to grant the St. Louis and Illinois Electric Railway Company, a right-of-way along certain streets, as described in The Republic last week.

The principal remonstrances were offered by representatives of St. Mary's Catholic Church, and of the South St. Louis Protective Association. Henry Mund of the association protested against permitting the laying of tracks on Clark avenue and Gratiot street. His statements were supported by J. Mischel and other members of the association.

The Reverend Father Gartenhoefiner of St. Mary's Church submitted a remonstrance signed by Archbishop Kain, and another remonstrance signed by nine-tenths of the property owners on Gratiot street. He said the operation of a railway in the vicinity of the church would cause a disruption of the parish, and the granting of the right-of-way would amount to a confiscation of the parish, and the granting of the right-of-way would amount to a confiscation of the parish property. Attorney Schniederhahn and others substantiated Father Gartenhoefiner's remarks.

Attorney Warnock of Edwardsville, Ill., requested the committee to hold another public hearing in order to enable the company to bring more evidence in favor of the route, but Chairman Wiggins declined to consider the proposition. The committeeroom was thronged, many ladies being present. Judge and is regarded as one of the emi-nent legal lights in the State of Missouri. To the Editor of The Republic.

St. Louis, Mo., March 4, 1901.—We believe it due the good people of St. Louis and Missouri that the members of the Anti-Wineroom Crusade make some explanation concerning the elimination by the Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence in the bate Senate from one of the oils presented by this organization of a clause preventing the connection of a saloon by means of call bells, speaking tubes, etc., with houses of prostitution and assignation.

Three bills were presented the Logislature by this crusade. They were carefully compiled, to the end that glaring defects in our present laws regulating saloons might be remedied, providing the laws were enforced if passed. Owing to the immense number of bills before the Committee on Committee on Committee on Committee on Committee on Committee on the Senate. A GOOD STORY

A certain young lady in delicate health was advised by her doctor to take a half-teaspoonful of Scott's emulsion of codliver oil after dinner-once a day-and found herself almost suddenly growing robust.

So small a dose is by no means the rule; the rule is whatever the stomach will bear -not more. Another rule is take it on every least occasion, but not too much; don't over-

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
